

Speaking To The Masses Through Missionary Work

Some people hear God calling them to a foreign land when they go to Him in prayer. God speaks to everyone through prayer but the words often fall on deaf ears. The prayers that are heard are relatively silent but people get the message loud and clear. God wants these people to talk to people in a foreign country about Christianity and the words of God that are found in the Bible. God tells them to go speak to the masses through missionary work and show others that God can help them do all sorts of things. The love exhibited through the word of God will be understood through the actions that missionaries do unabashedly for people that they have not known very long. Over time, these people will learn the ways of the missionaries are good and they will learn how to speak with God too. The missionaries will teach these people to love themselves and they will be teachers who are patient and have devoted their time and money to teach them how to take care of themselves as well. Missionaries do so much with so little resources and it is amazing to see the fruits of their labor and know that God is speaking through them even if they are in a field making an irrigation ditch and are up to their knees in mud. The unselfish acts of missionaries and others are rewarded by God and those rewards will be delivered after they die. When missionaries do their religious speaking in a foreign land, God gives them the right opportunity to speak where this message can be understood. The message from the missionaries might not always be received very well, but the devotion that they show in their work will get the message across nonetheless. The missionaries talk about the rewards in great detail and the words of the Bible are explained without fear. The words in the message are so reassuring that many foreigners in many lands have found the path that will lead them to the Promised Land. The religious conveyance of God's word is powerful but never overpowering. The life of a missionary may be one solitary trip through many speaking engagements but the rewards of every trip are embedded in their souls forever. Some missionaries forfeit their lives for the messages that they convey to the masses. Some cultures are threatened by the speeches about a supreme being that cannot be seen or felt in any way. The religious speaking engagements might overwhelm some to the point where they feel they must protect their families from such statements. There are always other missionaries who will want to return to that area to make sure that the religious teachings are understood properly.

About the Author

James Brown writes about <http://www.simplybestcoupons.com>

Source: <http://americanahost.com>