

Learning To Make Pottery With Films

Pottery making is an almost 12 thousand year old art of making objects by molding clay. Pottery making is a wonderful combination of the potter's wheel and the balance maintained by the potter. There are various schools active in teaching the art of pottery. Today we have various short films introducing the art of ceramics to the common people. In these films you can learn the art of pottery making by watching it on your television or computer monitor. Famous professional potters run the ceramics departments of various countries. Through films and videos they introduce us to various steps and prerequisites of pottery. They teach us to open the clay after understanding its various properties. Then we learn how to form various items through a range of hand movements and how to fire the clay in a kiln at the pertinent temperature for it to become pottery ware. Even decorating the pottery with paints is learned by simply watching the demonstrations. Today with numerous decorating techniques and beautiful designs, pottery has attracted people of all ages. Pottery has become a personal hobby. It takes a lot of hard work and patience but people interested in pottery have great fun making ceramics. With the help of short films on pottery making we can fulfill our aspirations to make our own pottery objects without having to go to pottery classes. Pottery making films, involve a stepwise introduction to the art of pottery for beginners. Pottery making films can also be used as reference study material for those who are taking pottery classes. People who want to enhance their skills in pottery can also brush up with various demonstrations in the films. Pottery making films are a creation of the modern era that have augmented the personal interests of people towards the art of pottery. The culture and resources of a country are the leading factors in deciding the styles and designs of pottery but the pottery making style of any country can be learned at home through pottery making films. Today, individually involved potters are into making pottery a thing of beauty. We can learn to make some of the masterpieces in ceramics by following the instructions of pottery making films. We can learn how to join two objects together e.g. a handle to a mug. A little effort mixed with personal approach to the piece of art can create some outstanding pieces of pottery. In pottery making films we learn how to mold the clay, create balance with the clay ball and use the art of fingers in shaping the desired object. These films help us to create the concrete shape of pottery by teaching us how to heat the objects to make the finished product. After the heating process, painting and decoration of the ceramics with various colors and materials is another art that tells us about the imagination of the person and his approach towards pottery. All of this can be learned through films.
