

How to Collect and Obtain Autographed CDs

One of the most popular past times of individuals who are looking to have something to remember their brief moment with a celebrity is an autograph. Getting an autographed CD is something very special to the individuals who get it because, not only is it something that they hang in their homes as a triumphant display of their brush with greatness, but it is something that will allow them to break the ice with people over at their house, where they can show it off to everyone who wants to see it. We live in a world that worships the cult of celebrity, and autographed CDs are an example of idols that can be worshipped in place of the celebrity singer that we seem to feel is worth our attention. Autographed CDs are a relatively new trend in the past 15 years, as CDs have become cheaper and cheaper. It was not possible with vinyl, nor was it possible with 8-tracks or cassette players, due to their small size. However, with CDs and a good felt marker, singers are able to autograph their CDs for you. Another great benefit of autographed CDs is that they can be effectively kept pristine and safe for upwards of several decades, meaning that while your paper autographs will disappear overtime, your autographed CD will hold strong well into the future. Done right, it may actually outlast you. Autographed CDs are also easy for the singer to autograph, without the need to try and find a flat surface for the paper, not to mention the fact that you are showing you are a true fan of their music since you bought the CD, instead of just downloading it illegally off of the internet. Autographed CDs are becoming one of the most popular ways that an individual can get an immortalized memory of their favorite singer. Through the autographed CD, they get a brief mark that proves, for a time, they were in the same proximity as one of the most popular people on Earth. Not to mention the fact that autographed CDs can be used to gain extra cash, through selling them on eBay, or through various collectors. As a result, autographed CDs are an important part of any collection for an avid collector of singer memorabilia. Getting the CDs can be done in a variety of methods, including the aforementioned eBay, however you can also get them by finding out when singers are going to be in your area signing autographs at music stores, or performing in concerts where they may be able to sign autographs before or after the show. Of course, getting the autographs is not always easy, and if you get a star with a big ego, you may end up paying for the autograph, or being refused for the autograph outright. No matter what you choose to do get your autographed CD, you will find that when you do get it, it becomes a treasured piece of memorabilia in your home.
