

The Popular Method Of Computing Text

In today's modern world the text messages can be sent on any occasion and some people pour their heart out through SMS. You simply make use of a small keypad of your cell phone, type a message and send to whomever you want to. But what if you can send these, saucy and cheeky message absolutely free. Sounds unbelievable but its true. No this not a joke or grey offer with some catches a convenient service offered by sometimes free of cost. By using your PC you can send as many texts you want without paying anything for it. The people who have already used this service can speak volumes of the service provider's precision in offering good service. There are many online resources that not only enable you send the texts free but also the whole process turns out to be very simple rather than using the small keypad of your cell phone. You might be thinking of this process as tedious and lengthy, on the contrary sending text online saves time as well as money. You need to have the basic knowledge of computers and Internet to access this site. The number of texts one can send is endless but it is expected to be used as a need and not a leisure activity. To begin with, log on to the service provider's site and go through those simple steps given. You can send SMS to any subscriber across the United States as every cellular service is enlisted in this site. Start the process by entering the receiver's cell phone number the mentioned box. You cannot keep the space or write any other characters apart from the numbers. The second box is meant for you to write the subject of the message that further helps in identifying the content of the message. Finally enter the message that has the word limit of 140 words so make it terse and precise. The last step will be to choose the receivers cellular service provider and click on the send text message button to send your message. This service is free and provided in every corners of the country absolutely free. Proper care is taken that no advertisement and Spam messages are sent on the numbers. So unleash yourself, be innovative and come out with the best messages. Play pranks on your friends, as they will not come to know about the sender due to the text being anonymous.

About the Author

For more information visit our website <http://www.textforfree.net>

Source: <http://americanahost.com>