

The Growing Acceptance of MP3 Audio Book Products

John Kennedy once said that the people of the USA and the world should wake up and read. I think he wanted us to all to get smarter. Do you think so? People of all ages gain more mastery of their own languages and their individual characteristics by doing this. Perhaps John thought that reading stimulates the imagination that he was so fond of in many things that he talked about like, walking on the Moon, for example. When we were young and idealistic many of us did read to open our minds and learn more about lots of things. When we got married and jobs in our maturing lives though we lost time to do this. What a shame. Losing our dreaming of getting better and smarter and keeping that excited imagination and enthusiasm for life alive. We come home, spend family time, then plop on the bed exhausted and go to sleep like programmed robots. Perhaps we have some hope with the advent and growing acceptance of mp3 audio book products.
