

A Success Formula!

People are divided into 2 classes. There are those who are rich and can afford to buy anything and there are those who just have enough. Why are there 2 classes some might ask? Why can't there be equality among people? The answer to that is simple. Some people work harder than others which makes one deserve to get more. This all starts by how people think. Most entrepreneurs started with a positive mindset and with a goal in mind like making that first million before reaching a certain age. A person can do a lot if one puts the mind into doing the work. This is because the mind is made up of the conscious and the subconscious and how it is used is what separates an individual from the other people. The subconscious mind is stronger than the conscious one that can either help one make that dream come true or hold the person back from reaching that goal. This is nurtured from childhood in the forms of ideas and beliefs that one has learned through experience and has been taught by parents, peers and society. A good example to illustrate this is how an individual perceives money. If one believes that this is evil, then person will have a hard time acquiring wealth and success will be limited. This is even though one has given everything to reach that goal; somehow there will be always something missing that makes it fall short. It's never too late to change that kind of attitude and later on becoming a winner. Here are some tips that can make it happen.

- One should take responsibility for everything that happens in the person's life. There is no one to blame except oneself. This powerful concept makes the person understand that the ball is in the individual's hand and it is the choice of the person what the outcome will be in one's life.
- The person should always look at the positive side of things. Mistakes and errors may happen but from it, a lesson can be learned. By not dwelling on what has happened and instead moving forward, one can see something better as a result of it.
- The person must have passion in whatever job it is. Money is not a primary factor in getting through life. It is merely one of the perks that one gets in enjoying something a person loves to do. By having fun, obstacles will just pass and everything will be just fine.
- Everyone has a style in getting something done. It is not uniform for every individual so one must find the groove on how to do it. Getting it won't happen overnight and may sometimes be a combination of how different people do it. By learning what works with others and what mistakes to avoid, one can come up with a way that could be better and making that individual successful.
- Everyone has the right to be happy. This all starts by loving oneself before being able to give it to others. Searching for happiness is a continuous process that the individual must pursue everyday. One way of finding it is through praying where one can ask some guidance from above.
- People are blessed with different things so one must never be envious of not having what another person has. The person should in fact be happy for the person since the other individual also worked hard to achieve it. Following each of these tips a little more everyday is a start in being successful in life. If one person did it so can other individuals.

The questions one has to ask are;

- a. How badly does the person want it?
- b. Is the person willing to do what it takes?
- c. Is the individual willing to change?

If that person has strong convictions in each of these questions and is willing to commit, the dream will become a reality. Being successful can never be done without the help and support of family and friends. Getting the assistance of other people along the way can speed up the process and also help one avoid making mistakes. Success begins when a person has a dream. The next step is committing oneself to the task and not giving up on that vision.
