

Develop an Attitude Women find Irresistible

Have you ever observed another guy, maybe a friend of yours who isn't tall rich, or good looking but seems to have some kind of power over women's mind? Its puzzled me in the past to see that they don't say or do anything very different from what I said and did, yet they had a steady stream of hot women in their lives, so what the hell was it? I cannot stress enough that the underlying beliefs and attitudes about yourself and women is of the most important. Women's notorious intuition can sense when you're just acting confident, and when you actually are. How can we develop a true confidence and attitude that will have women begging to be our little mattress kittens? "The attitude is the charm, balls, and cool confidence to have a women get annoyed and frustrated when first meeting you and for you to just smile and say, I think she likes me." -David D Most guys want the mystical words that will have a women falling for them instantly. A simple "hi" can be a great pick up line when spoken with the right attitude behind it! This leads to the most overlooked aspects of ones attitude: your body language, facial expression, and tone of voice. These subtleties can convey more about you than the words you speak! Humor and confidence is at the top of every girls list, but what kind of humor projects confidence? Have a little fun with some friendly teasing and making fun mixed in with regular conversation. She's used to guys kissing up to her, here you are setting yourself apart from the pack having a laugh with her in a way that shows confidence and humor! Be a leader in your life. This means you have direction, know what you want and actually doing what it takes to get it. Being focused on your goals is very attractive to women. No woman wants to date a lost little boy. Being a leader also means you call your own shots, don't just march with the other lemmings in any social situation. Another principal to a winning attitude is never ever whine about anything! No matter how small or large don't you dare "vent" to a women you want to attract! Think about the leading men in movies women drool over. In the face of certain death and insurmountable odds the hero has a cavalier disregard for the situation. They always stay calm and know what to do. A very important aspect of your attitude is enjoying your interactions with women without being overly concerned about the outcome. Having passion and enthusiasm in life is endlessly seductive. However, caring too much too soon about what a women thinks or getting laid can lead to a total loss of attraction. These are just a few basic principles you need to keep ever present in your mind when interacting with women. Now if you are like me your wondering "how do I express these qualities outwardly for women to see?" This article would soon turn into a full-length book if I were to go into such details. Keep reading and learning form experience.

About the Author

Many more articles about how to attract more quality women into your life are available at <http://www.gentlemansdossier.com>

Source: <http://americanahost.com>